Inferno, I have a headace like a prophecey might be coming soon. It could be any day now she whispered, suddenly the palm of a rainwing shot out it held a cup of melon juice and a tap of nightshade which was necassary for Inferno's headace as the nightshade had been turned into an antedote only she knew how to make. She looked at Stargazer you know you don't have to be an orphan anymore, you could be my daughter. We can be like any normal family except for the part where most families don't have mindreading or foreseeing or animus touched objects, but still you wouldn't be alone.

Oh well I forgot about that, but I don't know what the truce was between my grandmother or mother and you, but I still have a few or so nightwing followers, and I will not let you harm Stargrazer, she is my choosen heir I hand picked her myself, and she could after all be one of my long lost daughter as she does match the description of what my mother had predicted one of them would look like, and all to all even if your mother shares my rainforest you need to stay on your side, if your gonna act improperly on my side, she narrowed her eyes and I love all my subjects rainwing or nightwing, they are living creatures who so dearly care for, so much that me and my grandmother decided any rainwing pairs who wanted would take care of their eggs and hatch them and raise their children the ones who don't want them we take the eggs and raise them as possible heirs, or guards, and fighters.
